

Pond, Sabelli Plan To Make Round Trip From Ireland to Rome

Men Who Attempted Rome Flight Felt Death in Atlantic Was Certain When Gasoline Fuel Line Clogged—Plane to Undergo Repairs.

Lisabon, Ireland, May 16 (AP)—Plans for a round-trip flight to Rome and then a return trans-Atlantic hop from Ireland to New York were abandoned today by Captain Pond and Lieutenant Sabelli.

They hope by this performance to receive any honors that may have been theirs through their forced landing on the attempted non-stop flight to Italy.

Early this afternoon such progress had been made on the repairing of the plane that they believed there was a good possibility of getting away for Rome within 48 hours.

An engineer was summoned from London to examine the plane in which the fliers failed in an attempt to make the first non-stop New York to Rome hop.

Sabelli, arising today after a late sleep, described the flight as "a great experience but a gamble with death all the way."

"We were flying blind for about 25 hours," he said, "and were forced to land eventually owing to engine trouble. For the last three or four hours of the flight we had a nerve-racking time."

"The engine coughed and smoked while, adding to our trouble, we had no idea of our whereabouts. It was a welcome relief to see the green fields of Ireland."

"We lost a lot of gasoline on the trip across owing to trouble with the fuel pipe, and this fact, coupled with a clogging engine, led us to decide to land immediately."

"It was a narrow squeak, because when we were landing, the engine finally 'conked out.' We hit a mud ditch."

"After leaving Newfoundland our first trouble developed. The gasoline was not flowing freely from the rear tank to the carburetor. This gradually got worse and we lost all hope of reaching land."

"It was either a case of going ahead or turning back to Newfoundland or New York. We decided to take the risk and go ahead."

"I made a last desperate bid to put the gasoline trouble right. It was a dangerous job but I was ready to do anything."

"I climbed out of the cockpit and cautiously made my way to the rear tank. The plane's speed had dropped to 80 miles an hour and we were about 80 feet above the water."

"It was very difficult to hold onto the plane while I effected the repairs but I worked like a demon."

"It was a great relief to put the trouble right, but in doing it a considerable quantity of gasoline was lost."

"Then it became apparent that our hope of making a non-stop flight to Rome was doomed and the most we could do was to reach the shore of Ireland."

"We had about 20 gallons of gasoline in our tanks when we landed but, apart from the shortage of fuel, it was engine trouble that sealed our fate."

"As soon as I put the gasoline flow into proper order we were able to rise to 5,000 feet where the flying conditions were much better, but it was still a difficult job."

"There was rain, fog, and a stiff wind which helped keep us back."

"I can't praise the skill of Pond too highly. He never became flustered in the face of the worst weather conditions."

Rome Invites Fliers.

Rome, May 16 (AP)—A suggestion that Captain Pond and Lieutenant Sabelli continue their flight to Rome as soon as possible was telegraphed by the Air Ministry to the Italian embassy at London today.

The Italian people feel that the fliers have achieved a noteworthy feat and are anxious to see them reach their goal. Large crowds will be on hand to welcome them. The Air Ministry promised.

It recommended that they hop off in the early morning hours. By so doing they would avoid the dangers of night flying and arrive during daylight.

FRENCH FLIERS NOW TALK OF FLIGHT TO CALIFORNIA

Paris, May 16 (AP)—France's crack distance fliers, Paul Codos and Maurice Rossi, are considering plans for a Paris to Los Angeles or San Francisco flight, in an attempt to smash their own non-stop record.

They originally thought of heading for Tokyo, but changed their minds in view of the likelihood of difficulties in getting permission to fly over Manchukuo.

Governor Lehman Vetoes Bill To Build Gilboa-Ashokan Tunnel

Action a Surprise Because Hearing Was Expected Where Those Affected Might State Their Case—Governor Did Not File Memorandum Giving Reasons—Many County Organizations Backed Project.

There was a premature rejoicing on the part of many who have suffered in recent years from flood conditions along the Esopus, over a dispatch carried in one of the New York papers to the effect that Governor Lehman had signed the bill of Assemblyman J. Edward Conway which provided that New York city should build a tunnel carrying the waters of the Gilboa reservoir directly into the Ashokan reservoir.

Assemblyman Conway immediately got in touch with the governor's office at Albany, when he was informed that instead of approving the bill the governor had vetoed it.

In view of the serious condition which this bill sought to remedy and the unanimous support it has had on all sides, such abrupt action on the part of the governor was not only a great disappointment to all concerned, but was further a surprise, inasmuch as it had been expected that at least the governor would give the many individuals and organizations interested a chance to be heard at a public hearing. It is stated that the governor did not even file a memorandum giving his reasons for vetoing the measure.

The bill had the support of the Ulster county board of supervisors, which unanimously adopted a resolution sponsored by Supervisor Voss of Shandaken, urging the governor to sign the bill.

Other organizations behind the bill were the Ulster County Fish and Game Protective Association, the Shandaken Flood Control Association, the Taxpayers' Association and the three business men's organizations of the city of Kingston.

Gov. Pinchot Concedes Western Union Head Tells Stand to NRA In a Public Hearing

Defeat as Reed Votes Roll in Over State

Philadelphia, May 16 (AP)—After Senator David A. Reed had rolled up a majority of more than 100 votes in two-thirds of the state, Governor Clifford Pinchot today conceded defeat in his effort to win the Republican nomination for senator.

Blaming his defeat largely on his health which prevented him from making a personal tour of the state, the governor, who twice before had been defeated in his effort to enter the senate, left what political observers looked upon as an intimation that he may try again at the general election in the fall.

If he runs it will be on an independent ticket against Reed on the Republican ticket and Joseph F. Guffey, the Democratic nominee.

"I shall go right on fighting for the interests of the people against concentrated wealth, just as I have done all my life," the governor said.

He was asked whether this meant he would run in November.

"This must not be taken to imply any decision as to my future political action," was the reply.

He said he would pay strict attention to his health between now and the fall.

Pinchot and Reed fought out the campaign for the nomination largely on the Roosevelt "new deal" issue. The governor is a staunch Roosevelt, while Reed through the campaign criticized some of the policies of the president as he has done on the floor of the Senate.

At the time Pinchot admitted defeat Reed had a lead in the state of 115,848. Of this lead Philadelphia had given Reed approximately 90,000. The governor ran Reed a close race in the senator's home county which includes Pittsburgh. Pinchot was leading there by a small majority on incomplete returns.

In 5,498 districts of the 7,936 in the state Reed's total was 464,528 and Pinchot's 248,680.

Guffey, Roosevelt leader in Pennsylvania, swept ahead of Roland S. Morris, former ambassador to Japan, for the Democratic senatorial nomination. Returns from more than half the state gave him an advantage of better than 4 to 1.

In the Republican free-for-all for governor sixteen names were on the ballot. Attorney General William A. Schnader led his nearest opponent, Lieutenant Governor Edward C. Shannon, three to one. Other organization candidates held similar advantages.

The Democratic State Committee's choice for governor, George H. Earle, former minister to Austria, had an even greater margin. He was rolling up four votes to every one for Judge Charles D. Copeland.

P. S. Stahlecker, Public Service Commission and Pinchot's campaign leader, expressed the conviction that final returns would show Pinchot the victor. The governor merely smiled as he left campaign headquarters to get some sleep before sunrise.

REED OPPOSES UNITED STATES ADHERENCE TO WORLD COURT

Washington, May 16 (AP)—Opposing United States adherence to the world court, James A. Reed, former Senator from Missouri, told the Senate foreign relations committee today that a "propaganda" fund was being spent in an "effort to pull down the American flag and substitute for it an international flag."

Reed, who opposed the League of Nations in the Wilson administration, contended that "proponents of this measure are the proponents of the league." He predicted the world court would be defeated 19 to one if put to a vote now.

Reed, his voice rising to old-time heights as he warmed to his argument, asserted the "propaganda" fund for adherence was handled by Elitha Root, Joseph H. Choate and James Brown Scott, and said money had been furnished by the Philadelphia Boks.

R. B. White Fears That Business Will Be Lost If Code Is Passed—Also Afraid That Code Might Force Merger.

Washington, May 16 (AP)—R. B. White, president of the Western Union Telegraph Company, told NRA in a public hearing today that his company "will not willingly agree" to the stringent code the administration proposed for the communications industry.

"We most strenuously object," said White, "to the imposing in the long-established rate arrangement of this country provisions which we know will add unnecessary and increased burdens to telegraph users, will bring no increase in revenue, and seriously injure the telegraph system by driving a large number of users from it entirely."

White was the first of more than 100 business representatives who had applied for a hearing, most of them in opposition to NRA's proposal for a new code.

The Western Union head said Postal Telegraph, the one company urging a fair competition code, was doing so "in the hope they will produce a situation which will either force a consolidation of the telegraph companies now prohibited by Federal law, or for the government to take over the properties from their present owners at the expense of taxpayers."

Meanwhile, David Sarnoff, president of the Radio Corporation of America, told the House Interstate Commerce committee he hoped Congress would establish a central commission with full control over communications.

He was testifying on legislation to create a communications commission. The Senate passed a similar bill yesterday.

"We are heartily in accord with the principle of unified Federal regulation of the communications industry," Sarnoff said.

"We have always believed in the necessity for effective regulation of communications by a single governmental agency, and we pledge our complete support to the President's view."

"The creation of a single Federal regulatory body in this country will mark a most constructive step in the communications history of the United States."

BANGHART, SCHMIDT GET PRISON TERMS

Asheville, N. C., May 16—Basil Banghart and Ludwig Schmidt, Chicago gangsters, were sentenced to 36 and 32 years in prison respectively here today after their conviction of participating in the $105,000 Charlotte mail truck robbery last November.

The jury in Federal District Court returned its verdict after but 25 minutes of deliberation, and Judge E. Yates Webb passed sentence immediately.

Banghart's sentence is to run concurrently with a 99-year term he is serving in Illinois for the John (Jake the Barber) Factor kidnapping. Schmidt is to be sent to a Federal prison to be selected by the attorney general.

Judge Webb, in passing sentence, described the men as desperate criminals, murderers at heart, and expressed disappointment that laws did not permit death sentences in such cases. He said such crimes as had been attributed to them throughout the country must be stopped, and that they would be made capital offenses by the states if some other mode of deterrence is not found.

He sentenced Banghart on five of the 12 counts under which he was convicted, and Schmidt under three, reserving judgment on the other counts.

LEAPS FROM HIS AUTO IN ESCAPE FROM TWO ABDUCTORS

San Antonio, Tex., May 16 (AP)—Leaping from his automobile after he had been held captive for more than an hour, Grover C. Cain, wealthy owner of a string of filling stations, today escaped from two abductors whose announced purpose he said, was kidnapping for ransom.

Cain leaped from his car when one of the abductors struck him over the head with a pistol. He was bruised and shaken up when he fell to the pavement. The abductors righted the careening machine and drove away in the car as Cain ran to a nearby residence for aid.

Several residents in the neighborhood were aroused, but, unaware of Cain's identity or the experience he had just gone through, reported to police that burglars were trying to break in their homes.

Cain said he had stepped into his automobile to drive home when the two men got into the car with him. One of them held a pistol on him and ordered him to drive on, he said.

Cain was then forced to drive his own car at the command of his abductors until he escaped.

Retirement of Judge Kellogg

Officially Terminates Nearly Eight Years Service As Associate Judge of the Court of Appeals.

Albany, N. Y., May 16 (AP)—Judge Henry T. Kellogg of Plattsburgh today officially terminated nearly eight years service as associate judge of the court of appeals.

For several months Judge Kellogg applied for retirement on April 17 last, effective in thirty days, five years before the expiration of his term. He had not attended court in some time.

A Republican, he was nominated and elected associate judge by both parties in November, 1926, for the usual 12-year term.

Unless Governor Herbert H. Lehman assigns a supreme court justice to act or appoints a successor to serve out Judge Kellogg's unexpired term, there will be but six judges on the bench during the year's final session opening next Monday. This is expected to continue two or three weeks.

Judge Kellogg's retirement will leave three vacancies in the court at the end of this year, all of which must be filled in the November election. Chief Judge Cuthbert W. Pound retires on December 31, when he reaches the age limit, and the term of Judge Frederick E. Crane expires on the same date.

Insult Brothers Get Brief Court Delays

Samuel and Martin Hear Attorney Read Pleas to Court Attacking Right to Try Elder Brother.

Chicago, May 16 (AP)—Samuel and Martin Insull appeared briefly in criminal court today, both getting postponements on criminal charges in connection with the collapse of their utilities empire.

The elder brother, who sponsored Martin's rise to the presidency of Middle West Utilities Company, heard his attorney file a plea to the jurisdiction of Illinois courts, challenging their right to try on indictments for embezzlement and larceny.

Insull had entered the same plea in Federal court last week, contending he was "kidnaped" from his chartered Greek freighter by Turkish officers and was illegally held in this country.

Judge James Farly instructed the state to answer the plea by June 4 and he prepared to argue it June 11. The two brothers, Samuel Hyatt at St. Luke's Hospital and Martin at his son-in-law's home in Morocco, Ind., met casually in the corridor of the Criminal Courts building, posed for pictures, chatted a moment and strolled into Judge Farly's crowded courtroom together. They sat down on the front row and conversed while several other cases were disposed of.

Martin Insull's hearing was quickly postponed until tomorrow because of the absence of his attorney and Judge John Prystalski, needed as a witness. The younger Insull has entered a plea in abatement attacking the validity of the Cook county grand jury which indicted the brothers, and a jury is to decide questions of fact as to the selection of the grand jurors.

The two left arm in arm. There was no hushhush at the door of the Criminal Court building. They hailed a taxicab.

Baldwin Accuses U. S. For Chaco Conditions

London, May 16 (AP)—Stanley Baldwin, president of the council, today inferentially accused the United States of causing the breakdown of a year ago of efforts to impose an embargo on arm shipments to Bolivia and Paraguay, at war in the Chaco Boreal.

During a discussion of arms shipments in the House of Commons, Baldwin said that the United States, at the time of the negotiations for an international agreement, announced it was impossible to impose an embargo until the Congress at Washington should pass legislation and that no such legislation had been passed.

Mr. Percy Harris asked: "Is the failure of the negotiations due to the refusal of the United States?"

Baldwin replied: "The house can draw its own conclusions."

Baldwin declared that there was no use of Great Britain imposing an embargo on arms unless other leading arms manufacturing nations did likewise.

Washington, May 16 (AP)—President Roosevelt declared emphatically today for regulation of the stock exchange by the Federal Trade Commission as proposed by the house.

Mr. Roosevelt also sent word to the Senate and House conferees that he wanted the stringent marginal requirements for stock exchange deals provided in the house bill.

The House set up a 45 per cent marginal requirement as a standard. The Senate bill contains no specific figure.

These are the two principal points of difference between the Senate and the House in their stock exchange control measures.

Mr. Roosevelt declared for the more rigid house bill in talks today with the conferees.

These views were made known later at the president's semi-weekly press conference.

The president told the congressional leaders he preferred to have the existing machinery provided by the Federal Trade Commission to administer the new law inasmuch as this commission also administers the co-related securities act.

Furthermore, he feels it will be a saving to have the federal trade commission do the work rather than set up an entirely new agency.

Mr. Roosevelt told newspapermen that he had scrupulously avoided advising either the senate or the house during their consideration of the bill and had kept an open mind.

President Roosevelt also made known he is preparing a full exposition of the American attitude toward the long troubled world disarmament effort and it will be delivered at the convening of the Geneva conference by Norman H. Davis, special envoy.

There was nothing to indicate today at the White House that the statement contemplated any change in the American attitude or would propose any new steps for disarmament beyond those already suggested by this government.

The president sent word today to the House banking committee that he expected it to take an early vote on the administration bill to continue the bank deposit insurance act on its present basis with a maximum insurance of $2,500. Otherwise insurance of deposits up to $10,000 would be allowed after July 1.

Another controversial issue will be taken up late today when the president confers with the silver legislation advocates on a plan they have been working out with Secretary Morgenthau.

Pending receipt of the plan the president foregoes comment.

He is considering an early message to Congress relating to munitions makers, but the nature of this proposal was carefully guarded at the White House.

The president said he would send to Congress next week his long-awaited message on war debts. There was no indication that new legislation would be proposed either in this or the munitions message.

The White House reported today that the disputed labor bills, including the Wagner measure to establish a labor board and the Wagner-Lewis bill to provide unemployment insurance legislation, were still in the conference stage.

The president has declared for the unemployment insurance measure, but congressional leaders are skeptical of its chances at this session.

President Roosevelt expects to make public today or tomorrow the report of the Harrow committee which investigated monopolies under the NRA and also a statement on this report he has received from Hugh S. Johnson, industrial administrator.

W. D. Brown Wins Verdict of $5,000

Action Brought to Recover Damages Growing Out of the Death of Mrs. Brown, Who Was Injured in Auto Accident.

William D. Brown, as administrator of the estate of Harriet B. Brown, won a verdict of $5,000 against Benjamin J. Carney in a negligence action in superior court Tuesday afternoon. The action was brought to recover damages growing out of the death of Mrs. Brown who was injured in an automobile accident near Fishkill on September 29, last. Plaintiff alleged that he was riding south on route 9 and was about to pass a car of defendant coming north when he was struck and thrown over the side of the car. Mr. Brown alleged that the car was traveling at a speed of 30 miles an hour and was attempting to pass a car of defendant when it was struck and thrown over the side of the car. Mr. Brown alleged that the car was traveling at a speed of 30 miles an hour and was attempting to pass a car of defendant when it was struck and thrown over the side of the car.

At the afternoon session of court Judge Staley took up trial of No. 15-a and 450, negligence actions brought by Mary Polinsky and Milton Polinsky, an infant by Jerry J. Polinsky, guardian. The plaintiffs reside at Ellenville and the actions grow out of an automobile accident near Yama Farms in October of last year in which the car of Adeline McCarthy, defendant, was involved. LeRoy Lounsbury appears for plaintiffs and F. W. Brooks for defendant.

Consumer's Strike On Milk Is Forecast

Albany, N. Y., May 16 (AP)—A consumers' strike against use of milk if the price is increased in New York city was predicted today by Bernard H. Haldane, representative of the consumers' milk strike committee, as hearings continued before the state milk control division on possible price revisions.

"Consumption of milk in New York city already has been reduced one-third in two years," he declared, "because of efforts to force consumers to buy bottled milk at from three to five cents more than they have been accustomed to paying."

Copies of the "consumers' milk pledge," now being circulated in the metropolitan area "to have every adult milk consumer abstain from drinking milk so that children now deprived may get the milk at less cost," were distributed at the hearing.

Mr. Haldane said that New York state farmers could profit on milk sold at eight cents a quart, as in middle western states.

He termed predictions that loose milk could be sold at between eight and five cents a quart "merely smoke screens."

Several speakers at the opening hearing yesterday advocated sale of loose milk in New York city as a means of reducing consumers' costs.

Armed Guards Patrol Ontario Penitentiary

Kingston, Ont., May 16 (AP)—Armed guards patrolled Kingston penitentiary's stone walls today while authorities prepared for a probe into the origin of flames that raged through the change room of the south dome last night.

The flames spurted through the room from four different sources, causing from $25,000 to $50,000 damage and recalling convict threats to fire the building.

Firemen and guards fought the fire for four hours before bringing it under control.

As convicts were being marched to their cells in the south dome, the sections where the riots of October, 1932, occurred, the fire broke out. A blaze was discovered in the carpenter shop on the top floor of the shop block, but it was quickly extinguished.

Friday the Thirteenth

Friday the thirteenth is said to be unlucky simply because it gathers together the unfavorable opportunities attaching both to Friday and to the number 13. The European regard of Friday as an unlucky day is said to be due to the fact that the crucifixion occurred on Friday. The 13 superstition has been similarly attributed to the presence of 13 guests at the Last Supper; but it is perhaps much older.

Hoffman Is Winner In New Jersey Polling

Youngful Motor Vehicle Commissioner Wins Republican gubernatorial Nomination Over Three Opponents.

Newark, N. J., May 16 (AP)—Rolling up a plurality in 18 of the state's 21 counties, Harold G. Hoffman, youthful state motor vehicle commissioner, won the New Jersey Republican gubernatorial nomination yesterday by an unexpectedly decisive margin over his three opponents.

With but 164 districts missing out of 3,418 in the state, Hoffman's vote was 229,491. Former Judge Robert Carey, of Jersey City, carrying his own county, Hudson, and Cape May was second with 94,115. State Senator Joseph G. Wolber, leading only in his home county of Essex, was third with 73,916, and State Senator Emerson Richards, of Atlantic, trailed with 45,364.

The victory of Hoffman placed him in the November election fight with William L. Dill, of Paterson, now a lay judge of the Court of Errors and Appeals and Hoffman's predecessor as motor vehicle commissioner.

Dill, the choice of the state Democratic organization of Mayor Frank Hague of Jersey City, was an easy victor in his primary contest with Assemblyman Theron McCampbell, of Monmouth county.

U. S. Senator Hamilton F. Kean was selected as the co-standard bearer of the Republican party with Hoffman, defeating James G. Blauvelt, of Ridgewood. With less than 700 districts missing, the vote for the veteran senator was 230,265, for Blauvelt, $2,993.

Delinquent Taxpayers To Feel "Round Up"

State Tax Commission to Audit Books of Thousands of Firms to Determine Compliance Percentage—Particular Attention to Be Paid to Liquor Dealers.

Albany, N. Y., May 16 (AP)—New York state moved today to "round up" its delinquent taxpayers.

Instructed in the rules and regulations of all four state taxes—beverage, income, sales and motor fuel, a staff of examiners under supervision of Tax Commissioner Mark Graves began a thorough canvass designed to secure returns and payments from those who thus far have neglected to comply with the law.

The examiners will audit books and records of all of the state's larger business firms in an effort to ascertain if the executives and employees are subject to any of the four taxes and, if so, whether they have complied with the law.

Particular attention will be given, Commissioner Graves said, to firms and individuals who may be subject to the alcoholic beverage tax in an effort to determine how many are evading the levy by importing liquor directly from distillers and wholesalers outside the state.

Commissioner Graves believes thousands of firms have evaded the tax in this manner, inasmuch as the $1,000,000 revenue from liquor taxes since repeal last December is much lower than had been estimated.

Records of all retail stores, hotels, restaurants and clubs having liquor licenses will be examined immediately, and the tax collected where evasions are located.

Commissioner Graves has instructed retailers may be required to register as distributors if the practice of importing from outside the state is continued.

Special efforts also will be directed to locating income tax delinquents, of whom it is estimated there are thousands.

Piccards Make Trial Balloon Ascension

Detroit, May 16 (AP)—Provisioned with oranges, bananas, rolls and an aspidochelone, a racing balloon was sent aloft over Michigan or Canada today, carrying Prof. and Mrs. Jean Piccard on a training flight for their ascent into the stratosphere this summer.

The balloon, which took off at 5:15 a. m., was piloted by Edward J. Hill, its owner, a veteran of the international balloon races. The trio expected to stay up for about 12 hours and Hill said that, if possible, he would stay over Michigan. The big bag drifted slowly to the northeast at the take-off.

Today's flight primarily is for the benefit of Mrs. Piccard who hopes to earn a balloonist's license in time to pilot the stratospheric balloon for her husband. It was her first balloon ascension and Piccard's second.

Prof. Piccard is the twin of Prof. Auguste Piccard, of Brussels, Belgium, the firstman to pilot a balloon into the stratosphere.

Home Bureau Exhibit Featuring Lectures

The countryside exhibit of the Home Bureau located over the Carl Millinery store is attracting large groups. Lectures are featured every afternoon. The exhibit will be open until late Friday afternoon.

Tuesday afternoon Mrs. Gross Schoonmaker of Valley Gardens, Accord, gave a talk on rock garden plants. Wednesday afternoon Mr. King of King's Landscaping, Saugerties Road, talked on building birch pools. Thursday afternoon the lectures will begin at 2:30 when Miss Margaret Morehouse, specialist in clothing from the State College of Home Economics, will talk on the modern trends in clothing. Following this lecture at 3 p. m. Mr. Davis, of Valentin Burgevin Florists, will give a general talk on landscaping.

The exhibit, the most extensive of its kind ever held in the county, contains displays of work done by the women of the county in crafts, home furnishings, household management, foods, landscaping, clothing and child guidance. It is open from 9:30 a. m. to 5:30 p. m. every day this week except Saturday. An invitation is extended to everyone to see the exhibit. In her talk at the exhibit Tuesday, Mrs. Gross Schoonmaker pointed out general principles to observe in building rock gardens.

"One should not have a particular idea of spacing, or regularity of placing stones, when planning a rock garden," said Mrs. Schoonmaker. "But should try to place them to reflect nature." She pointed out that a rock garden should not be something on which plants are used to hide ugliness, or to cover mistakes.

In this section of the state, hard wind worn or water worn rocks, of those containing fossils, found along brooks or stone walls, make good rock gardens. Mrs. Schoonmaker explained. Moss covered rocks are good also. Many times rocks with indentations can be found which make bird baths.

Of the many plants Mrs. Schoonmaker showed to the group some were shade loving plants. Among those were iris cristata, dwarf iris, ajuga reptans, which have blue flowers and is of a trailing nature and the woolly thyme, which likes a cool moist situation.

Among those plants that have to have sun were the Alpine poppy, in pastel colors, Veronica rupestris, true blue, sedums and similar vivum, in varieties, polemonium, a blue flower with fine foliage, and numerous other plants suitable for rock gardens.

A modern dwelling has been made of the house in which General Sherman had his headquarters after settling Atlanta, Ga., during the Civil war.

The WORLD of STAMPS

By QUINCY JAMES.

The stamp-collecting art has been given another boost by a colonial issue of Great Britain for its island possession of St. Helena.

This island off the west coast of Africa, famed as the place where Napoleon was exiled in 1815, is celebrating its centenary as a British colony. There are 10 bi-colored beauties in the set, ranging from ½ penny to 10 shillings.

Five of the designs include portraits of the four British monarchs who have ruled in the last 100 years—William IV, Queen Victoria, Edward VII and the present king.

George V. In the centers are various scenes on the island as well as a map of it on the 1 and ½ penny. The other five concentrate on the scenic motif, with various decorative borders showing the plant life of St. Helena.

The paper bears a watermark of a small crown and script CA in multiple.

Mother's Day Stamp.

The usual flood of comment that has followed the issuance of new stamps from Washington the last few years poured out upon the appearance of the 5-cent Mother's Day commemorative. After reading the arguments, most of which were unfavorable, one gathered the impression that there was nothing right about the stamp.

The American Artists' professional league said there had been a "mutilation" of James Whistler's painting and criticized a "ten cent vase" of flowers pictured in one corner of the stamp.

The collectors, in voicing their objections, thought the stamp was "not in keeping with the standards of stamp design previously set," and compared it unfavorably with the workmanship displayed by the stamp makers of foreign lands.

Despite the criticism, the post office department at Washington calmly commented: "The people seem to like it," adding that millions of the stamps were being sold. A recent bulletin issued by the post office department to postmasters urged upon them a stressing of the sale of the stamp because of event it was commemorating.

Rumanian Weavers.

Three stamps that fall within the classification of commemoratives have appeared from Rumania in connection with the national weaving exposition of that country. Each stamp bears an additional charge of 1 lei, apparently to aid in defraying the expenses of the exposition.

On the 1-lei is an odd-shaped decorative structure with a thatched roof, on the 2-lei is a girl weaving, while on the 3-lei is a girl holding a spindle. The stamps bear the inscription, "L. N. F. R.—Munca Noastra Romanesca."

The Papuan administration is preparing to issue a set of stamps to commemorate the fiftieth anniversary of Papua as a British protectorate.

The new Belgium stamps, soon to come out, will bear a profile portrait of Prince Baudouin, baby heir to the Belgian throne.

Father James R. Cox of Old St. Patrick's Church, Pittsburgh, Pa., who specializes in foreign cachets and has some exceptionally fine ones to his credit, is sponsoring two interesting covers for this summer. One will commemorate the 50th anniversary of the presentation of the Statue of Liberty by France to the United States and will be mailed from Paris, July 4—the anniversary date. The other will commemorate the 200th anniversary of the Passion

Flashes of Life Sketched in Brief

By The Associated Press Thanks, Lady

Cortland, N. Y.—A telephone call at 1:15 a. m. brought the city firemen from their beds and a feminine voice came over the wire.

"We've just had a good fire here at the house, but it's out now. I thought you would like to know."

The identity of the caller was not learned.

Boom-Boom!

Spokane, Wash.—The combination beer parlor and dance hall, where the orchestra plays far into the night, and the nearby Raymond Hotel, whose guests can't sleep, have compromised.

The bass drummer in the orchestra will lose his job.

No Token, Please

Milwaukee, Wis.—War debt negotiations had their parallel here as counsel for Mrs. Johanna Reuther informed the court that her divorced spouse, Edward, had offered a $2 "token" payment on his alimony arrearage of $1,384.

"Ludicrous," the court replied, ordering Reuther to appear with a more substantial settlement plan.

Getting the Breaks

Greenacres, Mo.—For weeks Alton Snyder walked with the aid of crutches because of an injured foot. This week he tossed the crutches away and the same day broke his arm cranking his car.

One Way to Get John.

Topeka, Kas.—When Kansas peace officers met here in convention May 23, they'll be given a chance to shoot at an imaginary John Dillinger and Clyde Barrow.

Officer Harry Hudson of Topeka has constructed likenesses of the two desperadoes out of wallboard.

Absolutely

Park City, Mont.—Clyde McCafferty, Youngs Point teacher, asked for definitions, and here are some that appeared on the examination papers:

An absolute monarchy is a monarchy that is absolutely no good.

To pasteurize milk means to turn the cows into a good pasture.

Gum arabic is a sort of gum chewed by Arabs.

Buckram is the meat of a sheep. A fuse is a little jigger used in electric lights and radios.

Seasonal sales on farm fertilizer in Mississippi are about double those for the same period last year.

Play and will be mailed from Oberammergau. Father Cox is making his annual pilgrimage to Europe, leaving Pittsburgh, June 20 and will take the cachet covers with him for mailing. A postal card to Father Cox at the above address will bring complete information to collectors and others on how to get these notable foreign cachets. They will be specially designed in colors and gold.

"Here's the Way, Leone Sousa, to Fix Your CONSTIPATION!"

Prescribes Dr. G. _____ for Brooklyn artiste

When you "miss" a day—cleanse system thoroughly, completely. Thus avoid those sick headaches . . . that depressing "tired feeling" and other troubles. That's what Dr. G. _____ advises.

Nagging sick headaches . . . unnatural tiredness . . . loss of appetite . . . that miserable "half-sick" feeling are all, doctors know, common results of constipation!

is utterly different from other types of laxatives in four important respects.

WHY SAL HEPATICA IS DIFFERENT—MORE EFFICIENT

1. It is a Mineral Salt Laxative. It flushes the system clear of poisonous wastes and aids Nature to restore the natural balance of body fluids.
2. Its action results from osmosis (a gentle, thorough flushing) and not from irritation.
3. It acts promptly. No hours of waiting to upset your day.
4. No "dragged-out" feeling afterwards—because Sal Hepatica does not deplete the body tissues of fluid.

For when your intestinal tract has become clogged with poisonous wastes, the poisons are picked up by the blood stream and spread throughout your body, thus making you feel so listless, run-down, out-of-sorts. The accumulated wastes themselves exert pressure on intestinal nerves, often causing your headaches.

See what an amazing difference it makes when you rid your system of these wastes and poisons! And Sal Hepatica has been prescribed by doctors for nearly forty years as a safe, sure way to do this. For Sal Hepatica

My Most Important Job The Big Fellows H. G. Wells

C. Bell, Syracuse—WKS. Service.

By ED HOWE

I CONFESS to 80 years of life, work, observation, mischief, wisdom, etc. What have I found my most important job? To constantly strive to better manage myself, that I may increase efficiency of mind and body.

A man named F. C. Fox became general manager of the Santa Fe system some years ago, and went out on the line in a special car. Two or three of the older officials were with him, and they all sat down one morning, somewhere. An Irish section foreman soon appeared who was well acquainted with the older officials. The Irishman had come down to demand more wages (really very generous, and he knew it, but like the rest of us, he was always clamoring for more). So to the officials he knew he recited what a good man he was; how he had long been imposed on; how valuable his services were to the company, etc.

The officials he had long known agreed with him (in our disposition to get along, we all lie to a man's face, and coast him behind his back). "The man to see is inside," the officials said; "the new general manager." Then the Irishman started climbing the car steps, grumbling his protests, and declaring he intended to speak a piece of his mind, after long suppressing his indignation. . . . Almost immediately the Irishman returned from his visit to the new general manager. "A big fellow, ain't he?" the Irishman said, and returned to his work.

F. C. Fox is a large man; at that time young and athletic. Mr. Fox was sitting at his desk, back turned. The Irishman sized him up, did not speak to him, and quickly backed out. Everybody respects the Big Fellows, although nobody admits it. Perhaps they should not; such admission may be confession of cowardice—of lack of nobleness; I do not know, and am not discussing the question here. I only wish to say everybody respects the big fellows a little more than they respect the little fellows.

We all bluff a good deal; and bluffing is mostly foolish.

Your "hand" has a certain value. The ten will take the nine; and so on up to the controversy between the two spot and the ace, or the controversy between the section foreman and the general manager. There may be a certain satisfaction in indignation meetings, public and private, but they have brought me so little through my many years that I attend few of them.

The world has widely accepted H. G. Wells as a man of unusual fairness, education and intelligence, by giving him honorable distinction. He recently made a speech in London, and said: "In many regions of the earth there is an epidemic of intolerance which takes ugly and novel forms. To me it seems, more than anything else, a rebellion of the clumsy louts against thought and sanity; and they are now rampant everywhere with idiotic symbols, and idiotic salutes contriving idiotic cruelties. Is the civilized majority safe? Personally I do not think so; I expect to feel uneasy for another ten years; by that time I expect the clumsy louts to be conquered by a capable majority which should have better controlled them long ago."

Mr. Wells' statement is true enough, but it isn't new. I've been saying the same thing, in almost identical language, at least four years.

Why should not grand opera be given for what it will bring in at the box office? Why should we go so far in art as to pay a lot of men and women enormous salaries to screech in a manner we do not actually care a great deal for, and then demand that business men or the government, pay the deficit? . . . All the rest of us are compelled to advertise our show, and take whatever comes in. Why should not artists do the same? . . . You may reply they simply will not. All right; then let them go to the devil, or to Italy, or wherever they come from.

"The less we have to do with women," Schopenhauer wrote, "the better. They are not even a 'necessary evil'; life is safer and smoother without them. Let me recognize the mare that has in women's beauty, and the absurd comedy of reproduction will end. Thus the extinction of the race will be achieved. Why should the curtains that have just fallen upon defeat and death always rise again upon a new life, a new struggle, and a new defeat? How long shall we be lured into this endless path that leads only to a painful end?"

I do not endorse this sentiment; I do only that more women may know about its author, and hate him.

A man may be a fool in three or four ways, and wise in five or six others. (I have never known anyone who was not a fool about two or three things).

The human race may go further, and over an outer road; that is all I claim in such reforms as I advocate.

I know every people I like first rate, and consider them creditable on the whole, but often wonder they can be so foolish as they occasionally are in a few things.

The Dress You'll Just Live In

A WINNER

New York—Cottons have stolen the spotlight at most fashion shows of the early summer. They are just the sort of thing most women will live in this season whether in shirt-waist dress versions or in the more frothy frocks. The most formidable rival to cotton is bouclé. The woman, or especially the girl, who cannot boast at least one knitted suit this summer is going to be the exception.

If you had expected to leave sailor suits behind you when you reached your teens you may be excited about bearing that even in your twenties or after, you may follow the navy. You may wear white with blue sailor collars, or red, and go in for all the simple nautical but nice things you used to wear in your more callow days. Given a good-looking navy blue flannel skirt you can build up quite a wardrobe, topping it with a ribbed cardigan, or sweater. This reminds me to describe a particularly nifty looking one photographed at Cannes recently. It has rows of buttons, a collar, alternating white and navy, a few ideas surely, a turn over self collar with navy and white striped ends only. It had patch pockets, four of them and a self belt. This custom could be, and probably was varied by substituting a single breasted white linen jacket, twin sweaters or a blouse.

The two piece idea is going over in a big way and skirts and blouses have a consistent way of not matching. There will always be room in a wardrobe for the one piece, or at least one fabric costume. The one sketched is a happy selection in either an all over design or in a plain fabric.

The skirt buttoned centre front is the skirt triumph of the ages.

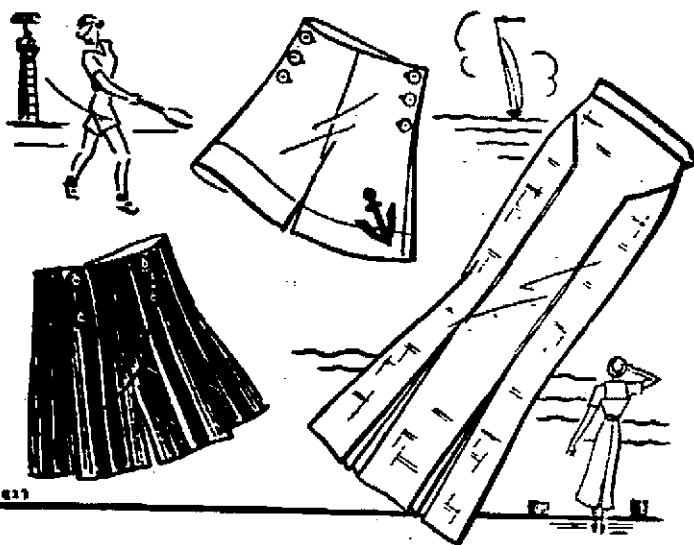

The Dressmaker Steals the Tablecloth

Copyright, 1934, by Fairchild

Tablecloth linens continue to be a feature in sports costumes that subscribe to the peasant influence in weave and patterning. Plaids and stripes are highlighted in coats that are usually posed over a monotone dress. Very often the former is fringed in the Mexican manner.

Red and gray is an attractive plaid used in the gingham for a three-piece sports costume consisting of shirt, shorts and skirt. The skirt has a metal slide fastener. The shirt may be worn with some of the buttons unfastened for extra freedom. A chemise bottom is a feature of the skirt and pleats are used in the shorts.

"THE FLEET IS IN"—AGAIN.

Left to right—Striped linen in a dress weight is chosen for colorful shorts. They are two tones of green, yellow, orange and white and made with a drop front panel. White gabardine is decorated with a navy blue anchor applique in a sturdy plain short.

White silk linen is the fabric choice for an interesting spectator sports skirt having two front fan pleats and an inverted center-back pleat, as indicated in the small back view.

Velveteen for the Occasional Coat

Velveteen continues to build up a nice style reputation, and this spring finds it again recognized as a desirable medium for in between season wear. One sees enough velveteen coats in fashions to create comment. Bright colors are the rule. Summer is expected to see the trend leaning more strongly to pastels, for the posing of pastel coats over dark as well as light dresses is very smart this season. What has done much toward stimulating interest in velveteen has been the promoting of washable colors.

DID YOU KNOW THAT

Knitted linens have increased style significance. They are being featured in a variety of novelty yarns and stitches in costumes for active and spectator sports.

Linen lace has come forward in fashions for summer.

Also the fringe-edged pleated jacket that is wide at the top and slants off.

The reefer suit with coat of seven-eighths length, belted in back and adopting more of the Norfolk look through the back is practical for summer travel.

HOLLYWOOD SIGHTS & SOUNDS

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Jane Young can't play an instrument or even read a musical note, but she has an ear that is attuned to sounds other than the pounding of her typewriter.

She's secretary in one of the studio music departments—but she's more than that. She's critic, adviser, eager listener, and musical memory.

Her office isn't exactly a place for the average, easily distracted secretary to do much work. It's surrounded by three little rooms where in three song-writing teams labor and hammer the piano—sometimes all at once.

Predicting A 'Hit'

Mack Gordon and Harry Revel, Sam Coslow and Arthur Johnston, and Ralph Hainger and Leo Robin turn out tunes for the studios, and they've all produced hits. When Jane Young really likes a tune, however, it can be pretty sure it's a hit before it's been tried on any other audience. Not that Jane's word is final, always. She is only an "unofficial critic." Still, unless she likes a new number, the boys have misgivings.

As soon as one of the teams has finished a chorus—and when they get the chorus they really have the song," she says—Jane is called in to listen. She has been listening for the past five years, so she is used to it now.

"I don't set myself up as a judge," she disclaims modestly, "but it just seems that when a tune strikes me right it turns out to be a hit, and when it doesn't, the number doesn't go so well."

'Spotting' The Echoes

She has heard enough songs, by now, that she can "spot" a familiar melody immediately. That keeps the boys from laboring on an idea that has been done before, in the delusion that they're hitting something new. (That's a thought—more songwriters should have Jane Youngs around.)

Gordon and Revel, she says, turned out seven songs in three hours for Bing Crosby to sing in "We're Not Dressing"—and incidentally set a record for composing speed in her experience.

"Time doesn't seem to make the difference," says Jane, "in whether a song is good or poor. Some of the best have been written in a few minutes. Other times a team might take all day, or a week, or a month on an idea—and then get nothing but a "dead" tune. It's the idea that counts, not the minutes."

ROGER LOUGHRAN WAS MEN'S CLUB SPEAKER.

At Dormansville, Albany county, on Monday night, May 14, the meeting of the Federated Council of the Men's Clubs of various districts in Greene and Albany counties was held. President Charles Bogardus of South Westerlo, presided. Delegations were present from Greenville, South Westerlo and Dormansville.

Roger H. Loughran, attorney of Kingston presented an address to the meeting, and at the conclusion was elected an honorary member of the organization.

At The Theatres

Today

Kingston: "Journal of a Crime." Ruth Chatterton emotes long and well in the rather sordid drama of a woman driven to the point of desperation by another woman's love for her husband. Blinded by jealousy, she kills the rival of her husband's affections in order to retain her husband's love. This happens in the early stages of the play. Her husband shares her secret and he watches her effect of the crime play upon her thoughts and actions as time passes. The show has a most unusual ending. Skill and dramatic power is all the members of the cast help the show greatly. The plot and action holds interest, and it is enjoyable entertainment for the adult mind. Adolphe Menjou, Claire Dodd and George Barbier are featured.

Orpheum: "Miss Fane's Baby is Stolen" and "Bombay Mail." Two excellent double features characterize the Orpheum bill. The first, a study in kidnapping, is taken from the novel of Rupert Hughes. It is a story of a motion picture star whose baby is stolen by kidnappers and takes home with the nurse, a child of the street. This is an exciting story. Dorothy Wick, Baby Lelloy and Alice Brady are in the cast. "Bombay Mail" tells the adventurous tale of various people aboard that train as it rolls across that country. Murders occur, strange happenings and stranger people mix up the action, with Edmund Lowe solving the mysteries as the train nears its destination.

Broadway: "The Witching Hour" and "Heat Lightning." Judith Allen, Tom Brown, Sir Guy Standing and John Halliday are important cogs in the cast of the first feature, a show that has been on the stage with popular results. This mystery yarn has everything essential to the enjoyment of an audience. "Heat Lightning" is a rather novel picture.

Laid in a deserted tourist camp, it tells the story of a girl who looks for excitement and romance in the dark places the world herself. She finds it when robbers and divorce seeking people visit the camp. A grand cast includes Anna Dvorak, Glenda Farrell, Frank McHugh, Ruth Connely, Lyle Talbot, Preston Foster and Aline MacMahon.

Talks to parents

Open Secrets

By BROOKE PETERS CHURCH
"Don't offer baby any cake." Mrs. Smith seated two-year-old Mary in the play pen severely consistent that the baby, not being able to speak, did not understand her remark and would not know of the pleasure missed.

Probably Mrs. Smith was right; the first time and after the second and third, but she must have had as usually dull child if she could keep up the game very long. Most parents give their children credit for too low a grade of intelligence, and would be surprised if they knew how much of what they thought cryptic in their speech was an open book to the child.

A little child, unable to read, gets most of his language impressions by ear, and is keenly attuned to sound. One mother, who said French when she wished to talk secrets before the children, soon found to her horror that the youngsters understood her allusions perfectly after a few weeks of careful listening.

How much of what is said by the adults about him the child understands no one can know positively, and it is always wiser to be on the safe side and not discuss secrets or make personal remarks before a child, even if it seems quite unaware of what is being said.

The child who as yet cannot speak distinctly, and so is unable to repeat what it hears, may be shocked and puzzled by the impression left on its mind. The child who can express itself may come out with an unwise comment at the most inopportune moment.

It would be very discourteous to whisper or talk secrets before an adult, and our children, whom we are supposedly training in the ways of good breeding, have a right to expect from us quite as much courtesy and consideration as we give and demand of our friends.

Fran, You're the Luckiest Girl, the way your dresses never fade!

IT'S A CINCH TO KEEP COLORS LIKE NEW IF YOU ALWAYS WASH THEM IN LUX. I KNOW ORDINARY SOAPS OFTEN CONTAIN HARMFUL ALKALI AND THAT'S ART TO MAKE COLORS RUN. CAKE-SOAP RUBBING IS BAD, TOO. WITH LUX I ALWAYS HAVE GOOD LUCK.

How to wash colored frocks

Test a bit of the material in water. If it's safe in water alone, it's safe in Lux. Squeeze lukewarm Lux suds through the dress, rinse well. Rubbing with cake soap and ordinary soaps containing harmful alkali may cause fading. Lux has no harmful alkali. It will keep frocks smart as new!

Market for Fruits And Vegetables

New York, May 14 (A.P.)—State Department of Agriculture and Markets.—The following quotations represent prices on sales by commission merchants and other original producers on the New York city downtown wholesale district up to 5 p. m.
Price quotations were generally small, many of the fresh fruits and vegetables from this and neighboring states as well as shipped in produce from the south, southwest and west.
Most commodities showed variable quality and condition and sales on that account ranged widely. Trading as a whole was only moderate and confined to the best offerings.
Green beans, bunches, beet, red cabbage, green peas and sweet cherries showed a further upward trend. Apples, peaches and plums continued to arrive in limited volume from California. The seedling variety of apples ranged from 2.75-1.75 per bushel crate, plums of the heavy variety packed in similar packages realized from 2.95-3.50, while peaches of the Florence variety brought 1.45-2.25 per box.
California sweet cherry supplies were considerably lighter today and consequently values averaged higher. The latest auction prices obtained for the Bing variety cherries packed in 12 and 13 lb. crates ranged from 1.95-1.90, Black Oregon, 1.75-1.25, Tatarian, 1.00-1.49 and Royal Anna 1.25-1.35.
Nearly grown vegetables were in moderate receipt and low prices again prevailed on the wholesale sections because of the light buying. Broccoli packed in bushel baskets jobbed out at 40-75 cents, Chicory 15-35 cents, Kale 25-35 cents, Leeks 1.00-1.25, Parsley 1.00, Radishes 2-50 cents, Scallions 50-75 cents, Swiss Chard 40-50 cents and Spinach 25-50 cents. Rhubarb peddled out at 1-2 cents per bunch.

SATURDAY IS REAL HOODOO DAY FOR BAD MEN OF WEST

Many Meet Their Fate on That Day of Week, According to Records.
Oklahoma City, Okla.—Saturday has proved to be as fatal to the fast disappearing ranks of desperadoes as the 13th of March were to Julius Caesar.
Albert Bates, blood Denver hoodlum, and Harvey Bailey, captured moonster, began it by standing in federal court here to hear Judge Edgar E. Vaughn, one Saturday, sentence them to life imprisonment for kidnapping Charles F. Urschel, millionaire Oklahoma City oil man, and holding him for $300,000 ransom. George (Macbine Gun) Kelly and Kathryn were adjudged guilty in the same crime on a Saturday.
Later Wilbur Underhill, tritester terrorist, spreading a red trail through the Southwest, ran into a posse of federal agents and peace officers at Shawnee, Okla., early one Saturday and was shot down in a hail of machine gun slugs.
He died until the next Saturday, when he was taken to McAlester and died in the prison from which he had formerly escaped.
Several weeks later Aussie Elliott, tow-headed Osage hills youth, who in three years forged to the front of Oklahoma outlaws, and his pal, Eldon Wilson, were shot to death at Sapulpa, Okla., one Saturday night in one of the bloodiest gun battles that section ever witnessed. Another of their comrades died, and Police Chief Tom Brunley was slain.
"Red" Edgmon was slain at Stillwell on a Saturday night when the escaped convict attempted to hold up a state highway patrol officer. A bandit companion was wounded and captured.
Organized Hunt.
An organized hunt by southeast Oklahoma officers on a Saturday drove Floyd Flippin, escaped convict, from the mountains of that section into Lebanon, Mo., where he was shot and captured with his companion, Dick (Machine Gun Dick) Dickensheet. Flippin and Dickensheet are now in Ohio penitentiary.
On a more recent Saturday, officers from every city and hamlet of Oklahoma, 1,000 strong, raided the notorious Cookson hills. They were heavily armed, determined, and augmented by 300 National Guardsmen. They gave the section, hideout of desperadoes since the days of "Little Bill" Doolin and Bob Dalton, such a "shaking down" as it had never had before. Twenty-one suspects were thrown into jail.
The latest victim of the "ides of Saturday" was Ford Bradshaw, notorious hoodlum, bank robber, and slayer, who was disarmed, his bullet-proof vest removed, and then slain after he had terrorized a roadhouse near Poteau at the height of a drunken orgy. He was "snuffed out" after he had boasted of his badness and vowed he "would kill somebody" before he left the place. Bill Harper, Leflore county deputy sheriff, did the execution work when Bradshaw started a fight after he was disarmed.

Senate Completes Thayer Investigation

Committee Ready To Turn Over Its Findings Concerning Senator's Relations With The Associated Gas and Electric Company.
Albany, N. Y., May 14 (A.P.)—After a month of investigation, the Senate judiciary committee had completed its task and is ready today to turn over to the Senate its findings concerning Senator Warren T. Thayer's relations with the Associated Gas and Electric Company.
The inquiry closed at 5:24 p. m. yesterday. The committee immediately went into executive session and decided to ask Governor Lehman to call the upper house in special session about mid-June to determine whether Thayer was guilty of official misconduct in killing "detrimental" bills while he was chairman of the public service committee.
The 1076-page record of the testimony, brought out during the eight days of public hearings, will be sent to all members of the Senate immediately so they may study it and be ready to act when they come to Albany.
The senators at that time will hear Paul J. McCauley, counsel for the judiciary committee, and former Senator Clayton R. Lusk. Thayer's attorney, give three-hour summations of the evidence.
Senator Thayer maintained throughout the hearings that his attitude toward public utility legislation was not influenced by the fact that he was a power executive and was on the payroll of the Associated Gas and Electric. He also claimed that there was nothing improper in his letters, expressing hope that his services had been "satisfactory" to the company.
The inquiry, authorized by the Senate on April 4, was asked by Thayer himself. It was an outgrowth of a series of letters between the senator and the Associated, made public by the federal trade commission in Washington.

DAUGHTY SCUDDER WINS MONOR IN ART CONTEST

Dorothy Mae Scudder of Huntington, L. I., daughter of Mary Gaddis Scudder, formerly Mary Gaddis of Lake Katrine, has been awarded honorable mention in the National Art Contest recently held by the Scholastic National High School Weekly. More than 10,000 children from over 2,500 secondary schools from all parts of this country and Europe participated in this contest.
Miss Scudder's award also carries a place for her work in the art exhibition, first to be held in the fine art galleries of Carnegie Institute in Pittsburgh and later to be circulated throughout the country. Girl, 13, Cheats Death With Her Fingertips
Concord, Mass.—Death roared past Lillian Hansen, thirteen-year-old schoolgirl, at mile-a-minute speed as she clung by her finger tips to the end of a railroad tie 20 feet above the swollen Concord river.
She had gone with her sister, Elizabeth, sixteen, and two chums, Margaret Hanley, thirteen, and Ellen Berry, thirteen, for what promised to be an uneventful Sunday afternoon stroll. Reaching the 200-foot trestle, the three younger girls started across. Elizabeth decided to cross the river by a parallel foot bridge.
Halfway over, the three were startled by a locomotive whistle. Seconds later the minute man, crack Boston-Chicago express, flashed around a nearby bend. Screaming, the girls scurried for safety. Margaret reached the end of the trestle ahead of the train. Ellen became confused, darted toward the train, stumbled and rolled between the rails of the parallel track, scared but safe. Lillian also tripped, but she landed on the outer side of the trestle, with only the projecting ties between her and the river. Clutching the end of one tie with her fingers, she lowered herself and hung there, safe momentarily, while the express, brakes screeching, roared overhead.
Byron Fish, eighteen-year-old high school football player, and another youth pulled Lillian to her feet.
Parrot Is Disinterested in Efforts of Firemen
New Britain, Conn.—A pet parrot, not concerned in its cage as firemen battled a blaze in Howard Gilbert's flower shop, taking little interest in the excitement.
When Gilbert arrived, however, the parrot fluttered about, greeted him with a shrieking "Hello" and eagerly nestled on his shoulder as he carried it from the building.

MILLARD HICKMAN HELD FOR GRAND JURY TRIAL
San Francisco, May 16 (A.P.)—The verdict of the coroner's jury recommending that Millard Hickman be held for trial for the slaying of pretty Louise Jeppesen, Ogden, Utah, girl was added today to a grand jury indictment.
"Although the evidence is not complete," read the verdict, "we recommend that Hickman be held for trial."
Companions in a party attended late Saturday by Hickman and Miss Jeppesen were among witnesses appearing at the inquest. One of them, Tommy Dee, said that when the party broke up at 2 a. m. Hickman and the girl remained behind in Hickman's apartment.
It was not long after that, police charge, that Miss Jeppesen was murdered. Her body was found in Golden Gate Park.

Bills Signed and Vetted by Governor

Albany, N. Y., May 16 (AP)—Governor Lehman today signed the bill appropriating $350,000 for the operation of the new permanent liquor control set-up which is re-organized July 1.

He vetoed the controversial Quinlan parole bill as "harmful to the cause of parole." At the same time he expressed hope that the legislature would "gradually enlarge the powers and functions of parole in a manner that its administration may continue to be sound and effective."

His bills aimed at hazardous alcohol treatment in New York city were approved. They are intended to remove conditions which resulted in the deaths of 44 persons in fires last winter.

Bills vetoed today included the following:

The D. M. Stephens bill, providing for transfer of the eastern of Bear Mountain bridge to the state. The Governor said the bridge company had withdrawn its offer to give the state the approach in exchange for an extension of the time the state would have the right to purchase the bridge itself.

The bill, permitting any person to qualify as a "teacher" under the State Teachers' Association who was formerly a teacher.

The bill, according to Governor Lehman, was designed to take care of one person—Archie Elrod of Troy, secretary of the association.

The Evans bill, which the governor said would increase the benefits of legislative employees and members of the legislature 45 per cent under the state retirement system.

The Howard bill, providing that all repairs and alterations in the plumbing and drainage of buildings may be performed only by licensed plumbers.

Do You Know That

The Standard Fire Insurance Policy reads "The Company shall not be liable for damage occurring by explosion, unless fire ensues, and in that event, for damage by FIRE ONLY!"

An EXPLOSION POLICY protects against loss to property by explosion (other than by steam boilers), whether originating on insured's premises or elsewhere. Explosion damage is always imminent in residences equipped with gas heaters, water heaters, oil burners, refrigerators and similar devices.

You can protect your home and furniture against loss in this respect for about $2.50 per year. Remember I also write all other forms of insurance.

E. B. WILSON MADE

NIGHT LINE AGENT

Edward B. Wilson, for 25 years an active figure in New York shipping and transportation circles, was today appointed general passenger agent for the Hudson River Night Line, now under lease to the Hudson River Steamboat Company.

For many years Mr. Wilson handled special passenger movements for the Pennsylvania Railroad. He then became general passenger agent for the Hudson River Navigation Corporation which formerly operated the Night Line. In the last three years he was associated with the passenger department of the Eastern Steamship Lines.

Mr. Wilson has definite ideas for developing passenger traffic by Night Line between New York and Albany. The Trojan, Rensselaer and Berkshire will be placed in service shortly, and a new schedule of fares is announced, to become effective May 19. The carrying of automobiles will again be made a feature.

Veto Measure for Tower on Whiteface

Governor Says Construction of Memorial Tower Would Disfigure the Natural Beauty of the Mountain.

Albany, N. Y., May 16 (AP)—Governor Lehman said "no" today to the plans of the Whiteface Mountain Commission and Col. Frederick Stuart Greene, state superintendent of public works, for a tall memorial on Whiteface, one of the highest Adirondack peaks.

"The mountain's wilderness should be preserved," the governor said. He vetoed the bill, introduced by Assemblyman Fred L. Porter, Essex county Republican, which would have made the monument possible as a soldier memorial.

Conservation Commissioner Lithgow Osborne, the Society for the preservation of the Adirondacks and others opposed the plan.

At the request of the commission, Col. Greene himself drew the design. A granite shaft was to have stood at the top of the Whiteface Mountain highway to be opened this fall. A large reflecting beacon would have shone at night, nearly a mile high.

Col. Greene defended his plan as "artistic" and in harmony with the scenery. The society described the proposed shaft as "something like Bunker Hill monument."

"The construction of this tower would disfigure the natural beauty of Whiteface Mountain," Governor Lehman said.

"While I am generally most sympathetic with memorials to our veterans, I believe that it would be similarly inappropriate to bear evidence to their courage, sacrifice and valor by the erection of a high tower at the top of Whiteface Mountain.

Kingdom of Yugoslavia

Jugoslavia was formed at the end of the World war from the former kingdoms of Serbia and Montenegro and territory which formerly belonged to Romania, Bulgaria, Austria and Hungary. It represents substantially the area inhabited by the south or "Yugo" Slavs. The formation of the new kingdom became effective on December 28, 1918, and by a royal decree signed on October 3, 1928, by King Alexander, the name was officially changed to the Kingdom of Yugoslavia, an appellation long in popular usage.

Secured Forest Stands Guard

Aldert, the tiny capital of the canton of Uri, lies in a fertile, fruit growing valley. Mountains rise all around, but its special landmark is the Bannwald, the sacred forest which since time immemorial has stood guard against any onslaught of avalanches. In this historic woodland the woodman's axe is forbidden and a stern legend warns that the hand of any trespasser will in due time grow out of his grave.

Slalom Racing

This form of skiing competition originated in Norway. It was first called slalom, in the Telemark dialect. Slalom means a track. In Telemark there are two slalom tracks connected with skiing. Much Admired Windswept Prints fade or run in washing and they iron smooth and perfect just like magic. Another grand thing about crepes of this type is that they are such a joy to work with. The texture is so firm and dependable—never pulls out at the seams and stays "put," which makes it easy for the home-sewing woman to handle.

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

IT'S smart to be windswept. Hither and thither the winds of fashion do blow until most everything in the spring and summer mode is being made to express a very poetry of motion.

The amusing part about the breezes which waft through fashionland is that they are so well trained, blowing ever forward during the daytime hours while at night they completely reverse the order of things. Of course, it is all due to the artful manipulation of pleats and flares and various other devices which designers position at the front of the coat or dress or hat to be worn during the day until you look as if the wind were carrying you forward, while the smartest evening fashions take on alpine draperies at the back or fan-spreading trains or similar details which make it seem as if midday were winging her way in the very face of the winds.

Even fabrics themselves are yielding to the touch of fashion's elusive breezes. There are the new "windswept prints" for instance, which are certainly a step forward in this current vogue. These perfectly fascinating prints are developed in flower patterns, but with a distinct difference between the new florals and those of previous seasons. In the modern "windswept" versions flowers are shown bending over on slender stalks as if swayed by gentle breezes.

You'll love these swaggy windswept prints. In the new chilla construction they are as practical as they are good-looking. And do they wear well! There's scarcely any "wear out" to them. Neither will the delicate color fade or run in washing and they iron smooth and perfect just like magic. Another grand thing about crepes of this type is that they are such a joy to work with. The texture is so firm and dependable—never pulls out at the seams and stays "put," which makes it easy for the home-sewing woman to handle.

The three adorable dresses pictured are made of the new windswept prints. Those dainty white accents at neck, line and sleeves—well now, we ask you aren't they frothy, filmy neckwear fashions simply thrilling this season?

The print to the right is that gloriously colorful a mere word picture cannot do it justice, and when one stops to think that this print will wash like new, what more is there to be desired in the way of a perfect print? The filmy white organdie roll-edged petal collar and cuffs add the climactic touch. The self-fabric stitched belt drawn through a gay colored ring is worth noting.

There is a modest beauty about the spring posies with their delicate tendrils so gracefully windswept in the print to the left which will carry special appeal to the woman of discriminating taste. In any of its color combinations this print is charming, but in navy with a strain of lighter blue running throughout, together with fluted white spring posies spotted with fresh light green, it is irresistible.

The ankle-length frock with contrasting fitted jacket admirably solves the problem of what to wear for semi-formal occasions. Worn with its jacket of solid color you have the feeling of being correctly attired most any hour of the day. Remove the jacket and the dress goes just formal enough to tune in to most any afternoon occasion. It has quiet drop shoulders and cunning new puff sleeves. The pliant little velvet tie about the throat is reminiscent of the "gay nineties." The windswept print which fashions it carries a very animated patterning.

Republic of the Tartars

Exotic Kazan, capital and largest city of the autonomous Soviet Socialist republic of the Tartars, descendants of the Golden Horde, is rich in ancient history, says the New York World-Telegram. This little-known city was for centuries the seat of the powerful Khanate of Kazan. In the sixteenth century it was conquered by Ivan the Terrible, after a bloody battle, and annexed to Muscovy.

On the city's skyline the bulbous domes of old Russian churches and the dagger-slender minarets of Mohammedan mosques mingle in picturesque confusion, hinting at the medley of contrasting peoples and tongues found in the streets below.

Here the visitor is reminded by the swarthy, slant-eyed Tartar faces in the crowd, and the tipping, ebullient Tartar language he hears spoken on every side, that he is no longer in Russia, but in Tartary, one of the score and more of autonomous national republics which make up the vast and many-nationed Union of Soviets.

The ancient Kazan Kremlin stands at the end of the main street, on high bluffs, overlooking the Kazanka river. The massive, battlemented walls which withstood many a fierce assault in the days when the world was young, guard the lofty tower of Sulem Bey. Around this curious Oriental tower, perfectly preserved, centers a weird legend about a Tartar prince who dug himself from the top of it rather than submit to Ivan the Terrible.

Grand New Nighties of

Satin in Floral Prints

A visit to the shops will disclose lots of new ideas. A few minutes in one shop showed grand new nighties of heavy satin in floral prints, so well done that the result looks like pajamas.

Then there are tailored pajamas of heavy crepe de chine with three-quarter length coats of similar fabric. These are done in white or pastel shades and are piped in a contrasting color.

Modern Jewelry Adds to

Attractiveness of Costume

A leading sportswear shop shows costume bracelet and belt sets tricky enough to renew any costume. These come in narrow and spacious widths, one set in coral, natural color, others in either silver or gold mesh.

The silver combination is accented with white metal trim. Another clever ornament here is a dog's head clip to be attached to one's hat, neckline or waist.

London

London is said to have been originally Lydda, a Celtic name signifying "down on the lake." The Romans called the place Londinium, adapting the native name to a Latin form, and the modern name is a subsequent corruption.

Frog Can Scream

A frog does not open its mouth during the ordinary course of its singing, but it can scream with its wide mouth open when occasion demands. A frog being grasped by a large snake has been observed to do this most piteously, making a startling noise.

U.S. Has $258,000,000 Prohibition Hangover

Quarter Billion Dollars Is Owed the Government in $48,178 Claims Hanging Over From the Pre-Repeal Period.

Washington, May 16 (AP).—Uncle Sam has a quarter billion dollar hangover from prohibition days which is going to give some thousands of his citizens a headache.

The department of justice figured today that $258,000,000 is owed the government in $48,178 claims hanging over from the pre-repeal period. The department is out to collect.

Of the quarter billion, $200,000,000 is being sought from bootleggers and others accused of dodging liquor taxes. Evidence is being collected to the treasury so that department can slap liens on the delinquent's property.

In another group are about 15 companies accused of having diverted alcohol from industrial to beverage purposes without paying taxes.

The government hopes to collect around $40,000,000 from them.

In a third group are 225 cases amounting to $7,500,000. They consist of suits to be brought against surety companies which bonded liquor men who guaranteed to pay their taxes but did not do so.

The last group comprises 1,359 vehicle bond cases aggregating $1,100,000. This class consists of instances in which bootleggers posted bonds to turn over vehicles ordered confiscated but failed to keep their promise.

Seek to Make This A Convention City

The Industrial and Convention Committee, composed of leading citizens of Kingston, who were recently appointed to serve on the committee by Mayor C. J. Heiselman, will meet with the hotel, restaurant and transportation men of the city at a meeting to be held Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock in the Municipal Auditorium on central Broadway.

The meeting is called to suggest plans to induce conventions to meet in Kingston. An invitation has been sent to many of the hotels and restaurant men as well as the men representing the various transportation lines entering the city.

Winter-killed Hedges Are Being Carted Away

The past winter has been exceptionally severe on privet hedges in Kingston, and hardly a hedge survived the winter. Householders have been busy for some time cutting down the hedges close to the ground, and the tops have been placed in the gutters for the ashmen to cart away to the city dumps.

The ash wagons, however, proved inadequate to handle the job and the Board of Public Works placed several trucks on the job. To date over 100 truckloads have been carted away to the city dumps.

Vassar President Asks Devote Heart to Policy of Meeting Changing Conditions—Fifth Century One of Modernists

Brussels, N. Y., May 16 (AP).—Development of a "philosophy of values" among the student bodies is the paramount task facing American colleges today, Dr. Henry Noble MacCracken, president of Vassar College, told a group of 100 Vassar alumni from Westchester and Greenwich yesterday.

Dr. MacCracken was one of four speakers at an organization meeting of the Westchester branch of the associate alumnae of Vassar College, held at the Hotel Gramatan. Mrs. Ralph H. Stearns of Bronxville was in charge of arrangements for the luncheon.

Mrs. Eliza Hasbrouck of White Plains was elected president of the branch. Mrs. Oliver Margard of Larchmont was president, and Mrs. D. Merrill Van Cort of Pelham, secretary-treasurer. The slate, chosen unanimously, was submitted by Mrs. Lawrence S. Stoddard of Larchmont, chairman of the nominating committee.

Taking for his subject, "The Vassar of the Future," Dr. MacCracken expressed the opinion it would continue its already established policy of adapting itself to changing conditions. Just as the 19th century was one of limitless expansion, he stated, the 20th will be one of restraint and measure—a change for which modern colleges must prepare their students.

Giants End Poor Road Trip in Fourth Place

New Yorkers Drop Eight Games in Western Tour—Still Dangerous With Hubbell on Mound

By HUGH S. FULLERTON

In the course of a disastrous tour through the western states of the National League, the New York Giants have managed to give only one of their 15 games to the crowd.

What started as a popular point for the league leaders ended with the Giants in fourth place after losing eight games and winning five.

The triumph left the Giants only a half game out of third place as Brooklyn's Dodgers also staged a finishing celebration and beat out the Cardinals, 6 to 5.

Although defeated, the Cards ended their home stand with nine victories and only three losses, a record equalled only by the Pittsburgh Pirates, who won eight and lost two to end in first place.

The triumph left the Giants only a half game out of third place as Brooklyn's Dodgers also staged a finishing celebration and beat out the Cardinals, 6 to 5.

For their Sunday game at the Fair Grounds, the Schryvers will play the Brooklyn Field Club of Long Island. Emil Amell, formerly of Kingston, is manager of the team, which is the heaviest hooked for the Lumbermen so far this year.

A Baseball Puzzle

Baseball fans have a problem in their minds tonight trying to decide which team to support in the game between the Schryvers All Stars and the Brooklyn Field Club.

The Haystack Park contest is a regular match in the Downtown Twilight League. Opponents in it have good following, so there is little of concern about the crowd turning out to see the battle.

Followers of the Hercules are always loyal to their club and the Rienzos are said to be dyed in the wool followers of their favorites also.

The majority of those at the Athletic Field will be from the central and upper sections of the city probably. They are expected to turn out in such numbers as to assure financial success for the game.

Flight Talk

Having read Doc Studer's choice of battles for the boxing show in the Municipal Auditorium Tuesday night, May 22, followers of the sport believe they should be lots of action.

All seemed interested in the feature which will bring together Eddie Karolak, Albany bruiser, and Lou Foster, Jimmy Ambrose's partner from Pennsylvania.

Karolak is the heavyweight that stopped Big Bill Freeman two shows back. Foster walloped the daylight out of Chester Matan, the ex-gob who trained with Max Schmeling at Greenhill Lodge and recently with Primo Carnera, world's champion.

Both Karolak and Foster by virtue of their victories here were given places on the Loughran-Neusel card in Madison Square Garden. Karolak finished his man in one round and Foster fought a draw.

Studer thinks these two heavies, both of whom are faster than the ordinary boxer of their weight, will make one of the best matches he ever arranged, featuring two big men.

Interested in Zinna

Another pairing that interests the fans is the one between Nick Zinna and Freddie Lewis.

Zinna formerly lived in Kingston. He came here with a carnival, meeting all comers at the Mutton Hollow grounds. So attractive was this fair, city to the Italian lightweight that he remained as a resident.

He joined the National Guard and under the direction of Sergeant Jimmy McCabe and Gene Conway almost made his way to the championship of the soldiers in his division. He fought a number of boxing battles in the old army, always making 'em in. He is expected to draw just as well when he returns to battle here for the American Legion.

Nick writes he is in good condition and will be ready to go six rounds at top speed. Lewis is billed as one of the up and coming young fighters of New York and should give Zinna a real test in slinging leather as well as endurance.

Both boys will weigh in at about 145, Zinna having developed into a welterweight since he left Kingston for Brooklyn more than a year ago. Tickets for the series are on sale at the Legion, phone 1914.

Billiards

Tuesday night at Nick's, Myron Herrick defeated Charles Tiano, 100-57, in the junior billiard tourney. High runs were Herrick 13, Tiano 12.

Tonight Gil Kelder will play Reuben Lewis.

More Releases

Other releases made necessary by the 23-player limit rule saw the Brooklyn Dodgers sell southpaw Phil Page to Kansas City, and dispose of outfielder Glen Chapman to Albany; the Boston Braves send pitchers Bill Barrett and Lew Krause to Albany; the Detroit Tigers farm out Steve Larkin, proven for Len Lary, to Toledo; and Cleveland releases catcher Roy Spencer.

Clair's Mayflowers Matched With Rienzos At Hasbrouck

Sunny weather this morning pre-announced favorable playing conditions for the Downtown Twilight Baseball League game at Hasbrouck Park tonight between the Rienzos A. C. and Jack Clair's Mayflowers. Starting time is 6:15 and the contest will get under way promptly, says "Pie" Murphy, the chief umpire.

The Mayflowers have one victory in the league and are more than anxious about this evening's battle. Chris Rienz's boys are just as eager. They haven't played in the circuit yet, their game last week having been rained out. The Mayflowers overwhelmingly whipped the Schwenk & Kelly combination for their win.

Last night the rain god frowned on the match between the S. & K. and the Hercules, forcing the twilight fans to go without a game. They are expected to be out in full force for diamond war tonight.

Neither team has announced a starting pitcher.

SAYS U. S. DAVIS CUP TEAM HASN'T GOT A CHANCE

Philadelphia, May 16 (AP)—William T. Tilden, with years of experience as a champion to back his judgment, says the United States Davis Cup team hasn't got a chance.

"I wish them all the luck in the world, but I'm afraid they can't win the trophy," the former amateur tennis champion said. "There's Australia in the way."

"Of course, they will get across the Atlantic. The Americans ought to defeat Canada and Mexico without any trouble."

Boxing Solons Lift Suspension on Baer

New York, May 16 (AP)—Max Baer has talked himself out of one jam with the New York State Athletic Commission and just missed talking himself right into another one.

The California challenger for Primo Carnera's heavyweight championship appeared before the solons yesterday to explain just why he failed to keep an engagement with them a week ago.

He talked so persuasively that the commission wasted no time in lifting the indefinite suspension it had placed on Baer and his manager, Aniel Hoffman, for their failure to appear on time.

Then Max almost spoiled it all again. He went into a long monologue explaining how, when and why he would knock out Carnera when they meet in Madison Square Garden June 14. The commissioners listened politely while, then yawned, then began to show some slight impatience. Baer cut his dissertation short just in time.

A Sense Of Humor

Dykes will not be easily discouraged. He is one of the most aggressive players the American League has had in a long time and he has what it is all about. He has a real sense of humor, which he will need, and the players like him.

Dykes takes command of an outfit that has plenty of pep, with Simmons, Appling, Bonura and Swanson featuring a brisk attack, but he finds himself badly in need of pitchers who can go the nine-inning route effectively.

George Earnshaw, Ted Lyons and Sam Jones are names that mean something in the pitching craft but the sad fact is they no longer cast any particular fear into the opposition. All have been belted heartily so far this spring and Fonseca is hardly to blame for the dilemma in which his successor finds himself.

The Seventh Ward Democrats have three games booked for this week, the first on the slate being tonight at Block Park against Jake's Candy Kids.

Friday night the Democrats will play the U. P. A. at Block Park and on Sunday afternoon meet the Irish Block Nine of Wilbur on the same diamond.

SPORT SLANTS

By ALAN J. COULD

(Associated Press Sports Editor)

The Jinx still hovers over the Chicago White Sox, once a consistent power in the American League but a chronic second-division outfit for the last dozen years.

It rode in as the players accused of throwing the 1915 world series to Cincinnati were ridden out of organized baseball. It has persisted now through two generations of club ownership, the tenure of nine managers and the expenditure of well over a half-million dollars for playing talent.

The White Sox finished second in the 1920 pennant race, with Joe Jackson, Eddie Cicotte, Nap Lajoie, Chick Gandil and others of the "Black Sox" still in the fold. The scandal broke late in September that year. Seven players were indicted by a Chicago grand jury. Babe Ruth, who was summoned to steer the ship away from the shoals and the ball was hastily inoculated with Jack-rabbit juice so that a new blood-red era, aroused by Babe Ruth, would distract public attention.

Nothing, however, was done to help the veteran Charles Comiskey out of one of the toughest spots any manager has ever been in. There was no rush to sell Comiskey fresh playing strength at reasonable rates. The White Sox dropped to seventh place in 1921 and haven't been out of the second division since. The elder Comiskey, after spending a fortune on minor league players, died in 1931 and his son, Louis, is now in command.

Parade Of Pilots

Ill luck with White Sox managers began promptly after the veteran Kid Gleason gave up the job of reconstruction in despair. The Kid, after trying in vain for three seasons to build another winning contender, never really got over the fact that his players threw him down. He is dead now.

The elder Comiskey made a grandstand play by engaging Frank Chance, the one-time "peerless leader" of the Cubs, to manage the White Sox in 1924. Chance died before he could even start the job and his old lieutenant, Johnny Evers, piloted the team as it dropped into the cellar that year.

Eddie Collins, then king of the second base, was given command and worked the team up to fifth place for two straight seasons. Ray Schalk could do no better in 1927 and 1928, yielding the reins the latter part of his two-year term to Lena Blackburne, who continued as pilot through 1929.

Donie Bush, having had success with the Pittsburgh Pirates, was named manager in 1930 but he lasted only two seasons. Lew Fonseca was permitted to start this third season at the helm this spring but he lasted less than a month and now Jimmy Dykes, the peppery veteran on third base, is in charge.

When they were in last place, staggering around the east, and it will be a miracle if he can get anywhere with the club this year. He has a number of his old pals of championship days with the Athletics, including Mule Haas, George Earnshaw and Al Simmons, but their best days on the playing field, as well as his own, appear behind them.

A Sense Of Humor

Dykes will not be easily discouraged. He is one of the most aggressive players the American League has had in a long time and he has what it is all about. He has a real sense of humor, which he will need, and the players like him.

—they age good grapes to make rare wines

—and they do something like that to mellow good tobaccos

WHERE THE RARE WINES come from they know that the two most important things in wine-making are the selection of the grapes and the long years of ageing in the wine cellars.

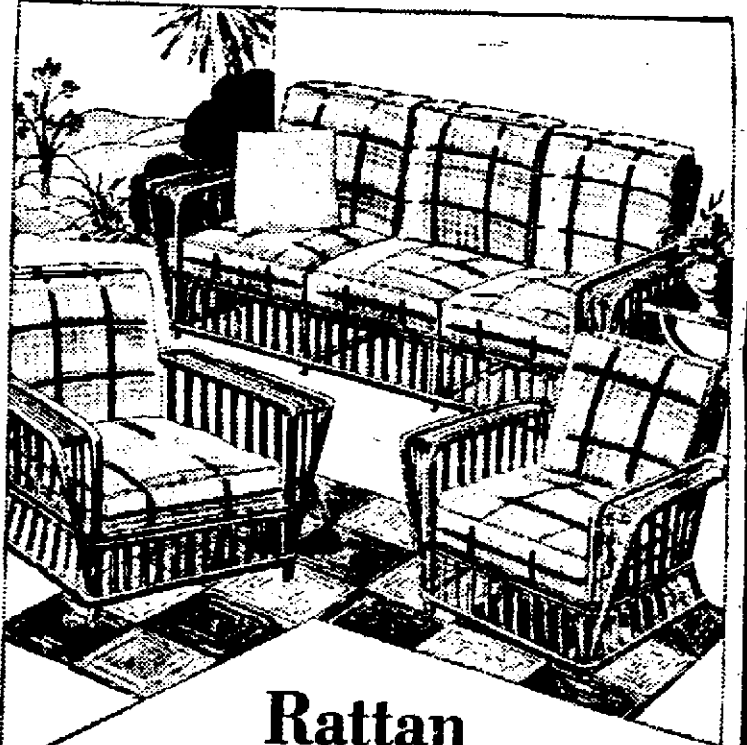

IT'S VERY MUCH THE SAME in the making of a cigarette. You have to get the right tobaccos, then put them away to age and mellow in wooden casks.

You can't make a good cigarette like Chesterfield in a day. It takes over two years to age the tobaccos for Chesterfields—but it adds something to the taste and makes them milder.

Everything that modern Science really knows about is used to make Chesterfield the cigarette that's milder, the cigarette that tastes better.
